Joshi, Keshav N. Nandurkar | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Body language is a type of communication in which physical behaviors, as opposed to words, are used to express or convey the information. • Body language, a subset of nonverbal communication, complements verbal communication in social interaction. • The importance of body language is that it assists us in understanding and decoding what the person is saying. Body language also helps interpret other peoples' moods and emotions. • Body language basics, which include your posture, facial expressions, and hand gestures. Your ability to understand and interpret other people's body language can help you to pick up on unspoken issues or feelings. • When shaking hands, look directly into the other person's eyes. • While addressing audience, presenter must have light house technique in which we spare 2-3 second in each audience. • If there is positive nodding from audience, it must be appreciated by presenter. | |
